GALES, FLOODS IN NEW DAMAGE IN BRITAIN

TWO PEOPLE KILLED, FARM LAND FLOODED

NATION NOT YET RECOVERED FROM DISASTROUS STORM EARLIER IN MONTH

THAMES RIVER NOW RUNNING BANK HIGH IN MANY PLACES

London, Jan. 25—(UP)—Cyclonic winds and flood waters brought new damage to Great Britain today as the nation still was recovering from the disastrous storms earlier in the month.

Two persons are known to have been killed, much valuable farm land flooded, and shipping endangered by the new storms.

The wind, was reported to have reached a velocity of 76 miles an hour.

The Thames, which on January 8 overflowed, causing 14 deaths and millions in damage, was running bank high in many places. Special precautions have been taken along the entire course to prevent a repetition of the high water of earlier this month. Several houses already have been inundated.

Coupled with this high water, winds caused considerbale damage in London. Windows were broken and trees uprooted, stationary automobiles and lorries were propelled down the streets by the high winds and many collisions were reported.

Damage was general throughout the nation. At Lenton, Nottingham, more than one thousand acres of land surrounding the farm of the Prince of Wales were flooded.

At Harlech, North Wales, three land slides covered the tracks of the Great Western railroad with tons of debris.

A mountainslide collapsed twice at Crosskeys, Monmouthshire.

Shipping was endangered and reports from Glasgow said the steamer Lochleven had grounded but that the captain and crew were saved.

Two barges in the Manchester ship canal crashed into a jetty and sank.

The greatest flood damage was reported from Nottinghamshire, Cheshire and Lancashire. Farmers reported heavy losses in cattle and sheep herds.

A four-inch rise in the Thames westward of Teddington brought fear of a new flood to river bungalow dwellers. Today water was pouring over Tedding Weir, a few miles upriver from London, at the rate of 5,200,000,000 gallons a day —an increase of 400,000,000 since yesterday.

NO TRACE OF PRETTY STUDENT HAS BEEN FOUND

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 25.—(UP)—The Mass of rumors and reports that has flowed into Smith college authorities since Frances St. John Smith disappeared January 13 slowly was being reduced today, and no trace of the pretty student has been found.

Mr. and Mrs. St. John Smith, the girl's parents, will not give up the thought that their daughter voluntarily left the institution and is safe.

The force of state police which was brought here when the girl's absence was reported has been cut fifty per cent. The remaining police will confine their efforts to a smaller area but will continue a patrol along river and hill paths near here.

HICKMAN IS DEJECTED AS HE PLANS DEFENSE

AIR OF BRAVADO GONE AND IS REPLACED BY DESPONDENCY

WAITING FOR THE TRIAL, HE ADMITS, "HAS GOT ON MY NERVES"

By DAN CAMPBELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Los Angeles, Jan. 25.—(UP)—In strange contrast to his egotistical manner of a month ago, Edward Hickman began his fight against the gallows today.

He was dejected as he prepared to go into court, and the swash-buckling spirit that he possessed a month ago, seemed to have disappeared entirely.

Gone was his air of bravado, and in its place had come despondency. There was no suggestion of "The Fox"—the sly, confident kidnaper, who terrorized southern California for days.

He admitted that waiting for the trial "has got on my nerves," he complained to jailers.

"It's all a bunch of foolishness, any," he said, "because they'll hang me sure."

Hickman finds himself depending for his life solely on the condition of his mind. Today's trial was not a murder hearing, merely a legal procedure to determine whether the youth is sane — and whether he should be hanged or be imprisoned in an asylum.

If the verdict is that he was sane when he kidnaped, murdered and mutilated 12-year-old Marion Parker, he has no other alternative than death.

If he is found insane, confinement in an asylum will be the penalty. Under the California law, an insane person can be liberated from an asylum if he proves himself sane at the end of a year, so Hickman had a possible chance for ultimate liberation if he was found insane.

The burden of proving Hickman insane will be carried by Jerome Walsh, youthful Kansas City lawyer.

Walsh's key witnesses are expected to be Mrs. Eva Hickman and Thomas Hickman, estranged parents of Edward.

The mother indirectly will attempt to shoulder Edward's crime.

For it was she who was blamed for Edward's alleged insanity. She spent some time in an asylum.

Perhaps the most colorful prosecution witness will be Perry Parker, father of Marion. Fresh in his mind as he testifies will be the afternoon on which he bought Marion's body from Edward Hickman for 75 twenty dollar notes.

The desire for self-preservation will prompt Welby Hunt, 18-year-old former companion of Hickman, to testify for the state. Hunt will tell of the association of the two in criminal activities before Marion's murder.

Where the defense theorizes about a youth suffering from inherited insanity, the state will paint a picture of an honor student in high school who was obsessed with a desire to commit "the perfect crime."

Down the two corridors leading to the court room where Hickman was to be tried, deputy sheriffs,

NICARAGUAN SITUATION AT PAN-AMERICAN

PROMISES TO ENTER COUNCIL CHAMBERS OF CONFERENCE BY SIDE DOOR

NOT HERALDED BY RATTLE OF MUSKETRY BUT RATHER BY DOVE OF PEACE

By HARRY FRANTZ
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Havana, Jan. 25—The Nicaraguan situation promises to enter the council chambers of this sixth Pan-American conference by a side door —heralded not by a rattle of musketry, but rather by the dove of peace.

A little band of Quaker pilgrims led by Carolena Wood, of the Society of Friends, has arrived here from Nicaragua after a futile attempt to bring about a reconciliation between General Augustino Sandino, Nicaraguan liberal leader, and commanding officers of the United States marine forces there.

In an interview with the United Press today, Miss Wood recounted the experiences of her party in Nicaragua and outlined the purpose of her mission to Havana.

Through Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Leland Stanford University and member of the United States delegation in the committee on intellectual co-operation of the conference, Miss Wood hopes to introduce for the consideration of the delegates here a proposal to revive the Washington pact of 1907 and launch a program of university building throughout Central America.

She has conferred with Dr. Wilbur and Charles Evans Hughes, president of the United States delegation, regarding her project and has extracted the promise from the former that he will confer with various of the Central American delegates.

Miss Wood's project contemplates the establishment in Salvador of a practical school of agriculture; in Honduras of a school of mines; in Nicaragua, of a school of arts and trades; in Costa Rica, of a pedagogical institute; and in Guatemala, a Central American bureau to work with a collaborating committee of friends in New York in founding fellowships and scholarships for student exchanges.

PREPARES TO FLY ALONE IN ROCKET TO STAR OF VENUS

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 25.—(U.P.)—Three venturesome travelers have been refused a seat in Robert Condit's proposed Miami Beach to Venus rocket.

Condit explained he denied the requests for passage to the planet because he personally prefers to leave the earth alone.

The three applications were received from George Nemuth, Los Angeles; George De Mengin, St. Malo, France, and Arthur "Dare Devil" Fisher, Bloomington, Ill., Condit said.

Condit's rocket is a matter of speculation here. He has refused to divulge its nature, but announced he expected to make his first 50,000,000 mile attempt the third week of February, when, he said, meteoric conditions will be best.

FLIVVER PLANE FORCED DOWN

THICK FOG AND ICY WINDS TOO GREAT A HANDICAP FOR PLANE

Asheville, N. C., Jan. 25.—(UP)—On the advice of Henry Ford, Harry Brooks, pilot of the flivver airplane which was forced down here on a proposed non-stop flight from Detroit to Miami, Fla., planned to return to his starting point today, with a stop at Washington, D. C.

Thick fog and icy winds over the mountains north of here forced the two-cylinder plane down, Brooks reported, although the newly perfected motor functioned perfectly throughout the 500 mile flight.

His northward flight from here today, he said, was advised by Henry Ford, who suggested he make a second attempt to span the Detroit-Miami route without stop.

He was convinced the flight to Miami could have been made, but for weather conditions. Ice formed on the wings of the small plane and on the propeller. Brooks said he tried to lift the craft above the clouds, but unsuccessfully, and when he tried to go under them, rain blinded him.

Shortly before 4 P. M. he passed over Asheville, circled the city, and found a landing place in a vacant lot.

Brooks estimated the two-cylinder engine had used but 20 gallons of the 50 aboard, despite adverse winds that slowed down the speed to 55 miles at times.

The pilot was enthusiastic over the performance of the tiny plane.

HEAVY PROPERTY DAMAGE AT MONTEREY, COOKEVILLE, TENN.

ATTEMPTS MADE TO COMMUNICATE WITH HOLMES CREEK DISTRICT

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 25.—(UP)—The tornado which swept through central Tennessee yesterday took a known toll of four lives at Holmes Creek, and injured eight others, two probably fatally, according to advices received here today.

The dead, killed when the Holmes Creek rural school house collapsed, were identified as:

Edward Atnip, 8; George W. Hayes, 10; Ruby Smith, 10; Harvey Grippes, 14.

The injured, both reported in a fatal condition, are Aubrey Smith, 16, fractured skull, and Grady Carter, principal of the demolished school.

Further casualties were feared in the affected area, however, although confirmation here was lacking because of destruction of telephone and telegraph lines and blocking of highways by uprooted trees.

Damage to property was believed heavy.

The Tennessee Central railroad system brought news of isolation and heavy property damage near Monterey and Cookeville as connection with stations in that territory was re-established.

At Dripping Springs, six miles from Monterey, it was reported, three or four homes were blown over and wrecked by the tornado. All telephone wires in the county and in Wilson county were down and reports as to damage in rural communities could not be obtained.

Trees were levelled by the wind at Monterey, and roads were described as almost impassable.

WESTERN KENTUCKY TOUCHED BY TWISTER

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 25. — A cyclone which swept across western Kentucky late yesterday killed one person, seriously injured another, and caused thousands of dollars damage.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 25. — Several houses were destroyed and trees, telephone poles and wires were blown down when a high wind struck Nashville yesterday.

No loss of life was reported.

MANY RURAL DISTRICTS HIT

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 25. — Attempts were made here today to establish radio communication with Holmes Creek district of Dekalb county where four children were reported killed and more than a score injured by a tornado late yesterday.

All wire communication with Holmes Creek from here was cut off. Telephone lines were down and roads were blocked by fallen trees, according to word brought here by bus drivers late last night.

Reports from Alexandria, Dekalb county, the only point possible to reach by wire early today, however, denied the reported death of four children.

A school house at Liberty, a small country station, was badly damaged and the principal of the school was seriously injured, but no deaths occurred, the Alexandria reports stated.

At Prosperity, another rural community, the church was reported completely demolished and the school house badly damaged, but only slight injuries were said to have been sustained.

Reports of injuries at various points in the county had reached Alexandria early today, however, and indications were that property damage probably would aggregate thousands of dollars.

GALES SWEEP NEW YORK LAST NIGHT

SHIPPING ENDANGERED OFF COAST BY 70 MILE AN HOUR STORM

New York, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Gales which blew out window panes and demolished small structures in the suburbs last night were followed today by storm warnings from the weather bureau here for the Atlantic seaboard from the Delaware breakwater to Eastport, Me.

Two vessels were sunk in the harbor. One was the U. S. S. Dewey, historic gunboat captured by American naval forces in the Spanish-American war and named after their commander. It recently was bought from the government by private interests and was being dismantled in the Brooklyn docks. High waves swamped it.

The other boat was a 400 ton barge which went to the bottom when its seams ripped open while resting on the Brooklyn side of the harbor.

Tearing at a 70-mile-an-hour pace over the city, the gale passed northeastward along the shoreline and out to sea, whipping up the waters into huge waves.

In the New York harbor alone the waves were the highest in the memory of marine officials. They dashed aaginst the battery seawall so hard that spray was flung 40 feet in the air.

Incoming liners, all delayed by other weather disturbances of the past few days, crept along. For the first time in years they were not met today by a coast guard cutter, so rough was the harbor.

All day the harbor police and government boats received calls for aid as barges tore loose from their moorings and were tossed about the harbor.

Although the center of the storm already had passed over the New York area, strong winds continued to cause damage today to shop windows and signs. They will diminish, however, and be gone by night, the weather bureau said.

Damage from the winds was evident everywhere in New York and its suburbs. Manhattan apparentiy suffered less than Brooklyn and the Bronx where glass and debris were scattered over the streets, small buildings overturned and signs and poles tore loose.

In Coney Island one vacant house was reported to have been blown three blocks.

In Brooklyn a steel girder was torn from the eleventh floor of a new building and crashed onto an elevated track in front of a train. The train was stopped in time to prevent wrecking.

VIGOROUS DRIVE STARTED TO CATCH REBEL GENERAL

SEVERAL SMALL SKIRMISHES IN PAST FEW DAYS; 10 REBELS KILLED

SUPPLIES AND AMMUNITION OF AMERICANS HAULED OVER HAZARDOUS TRAILS

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 25. —(UP)—A United States marine force of 1,000 men, with two mountain batteries, was in the field today in a vigorous drive to capture General Augustino Sandino, rebel leader, and bring an end fo the uprising.

In several small skirmishes within the past few days between 10 and 12 rebels have been killed and injured by the marine forces, Colonel Mason Gulick announced in telling of the marine activities.

There was the greatest of activity by the American forces, the announcement said.

Supplies and ammunition were hauled into the Leon section over hazardous trails. All the bullcarts available have been pushed into service in taking the ammunition into the fighting section.

The few brief skirmishes already reported were with snipers detached from the main body of General Sandino's forces.

Natives brought an explanation of these sniping groups, Colonel Gulick explained.

He said they informed him General Sandino had divided the main body of his army into small companies and had decided on guerilla warfare from now on. This was owing to the overpowering strength of the combined marine and Nicaraguan national guard army in the field.

Major General Lejeune, United States marine commandant, who has been here inspecting the posts, will leave for the United States Friday.

Guatemala, Jan. 25.—Police dispersed 3,000 people who tried to parade through the city to show their sympathy with the Nicaraguan revolutionist general, Augustino Sandino, whom American marines are fighting. The attempted parade came after a mass meeting in Concordia Park.

Damage to property was believed heavy.

The Tennessee Central railroad system brought news of isolation and heavy property damage near Monterey and Cookeville as connection with stations in that territory was re-established.

At Dripping Springs, six miles from Monterey, it was reported, three or four homes were blown over and wrecked by the tornado. All telephone wires in the county and in Wilson county were down and reports as to damage in rural communities could not be obtained.

Trees were levelled by the wind at Monterey, and roads were described as almost impassable.

WESTERN KENTUCKY TOUCHED BY TWISTER

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 25. — A cyclone which swept across western Kentucky late yesterday killed one person, seriously injured another, and caused thousands of dollars damage.

The 3-year-old child of A. Price was killed in the collapse of the Price home. A school house in Ballard county was wrecked but none of the 30 pupils was hurt.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 25. — Several houses were destroyed and trees, telephone poles and wires were blown down when a high wind struck Nashville yesterday.

No loss of life was reported.

MANY RURAL DISTRICTS HIT

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 25. — Attempts were made here today to establish radio communication with Holmes Creek district of Dekalb county where four children were reported killed and more than a score injured by a tornado late yesterday.

All wire communication with Holmes Creek from here was cut off. Telephone lines were down and roads were blocked by fallen trees, according to word brought here by bus drivers late last night.

Reports from Alexandria, Dekalb county, the only point possible to reach by wire early today, however, denied the reported death of four children.

A school house at Liberty, a small country station, was badly damaged and the principal of the school was seriously injured, but no deaths occurred, the Alexandria reports stated.

At Prosperity, another rural community, the church was reported completely demolished and the school house badly damaged, but only slight injuries were said to have been sustained.

Reports of injuries at various points in the county had reached Alexandria early today, however, and indications were that property damage probably would aggregate thousands of dollars.

GALES SWEEP NEW YORK LAST NIGHT

SHIPPING ENDANGERED OFF COAST BY 70 MILE AN HOUR STORM

New York, Jan. 25.—(U.P.)—Gales which blew out window panes and demolished small structures in the suburbs last night were followed today by storm warnings from the weather bureau here for the Atlantic seaboard from the Delaware breakwater to Eastport, Me.

Two vessels were sunk in the harbor. One was the U. S. S. Dewey, historic gunboat captured by American naval forces in the Spanish-American war and named after their commander. It recently was bought from the government by private interests and was being dismantled in the Brooklyn docks. High waves swamped it.

The other boat was a 400 ton barge which went to the bottom when its seams ripped open while resting on the Brooklyn side of the harbor.

Tearing at a 70-mile-an-hour pace over the city, the gale passed northeastward along the shoreline and out to sea, whipping up the waters into huge waves.

In the New York harbor alone the waves were the highest in the memory of marine officials. They dashed aaginst the battery seawall so hard that spray was flung 40 feet in the air.

Incoming liners, all delayed by other weather disturbances of the past few days, crept along. For the first time in years they were not met today by a coast guard cutter, so rough was the harbor.

All day the harbor police and government boats received calls for aid as barges tore loose from their moorings and were tossed about the harbor.

Although the center of the storm already had passed over the New York area, strong winds continued to cause damage today to shop windows and signs. They will diminish, however, and be gone by night, the weather bureau said.

Damage from the winds was evident everywhere in New York and its suburbs. Manhattan apparently suffered less than Brooklyn and the Bronx where glass and debris were scattered over the streets, small buildings overturned and signs and poles tore loose.

In Coney Island one vacant house was reported to have been blown three blocks.

In Brooklyn a steel girder was torn from the eleventh floor of a new building and crashed onto an elevated track in front of a train. The train was stopped in time to prevent wrecking.

VIGOROUS DRIVE STARTED TO CATCH REBEL GENERAL

SEVERAL SMALL SKIRMISHES IN PAST FEW DAYS; 10 REBELS KILLED

SUPPLIES AND AMMUNITION OF AMERICANS HAULED OVER HAZARDOUS TRAILS

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 25. —(UP)—A United States marine force of 1,000 men, with two mountain batteries, was in the field today in a vigorous drive to capture General Augustino Sandino, rebel leader, and bring an end to the uprising.

In several small skirmishes within the past few days between 10 and 12 rebels have been killed and injured by the marine forces, Colonel Mason Gulick announced in telling of the marine activities.

There was the greatest of activity by the American forces, the announcement said.

Supplies and ammunition were hauled into the Leon section over hazardous trails. All the bullcarts available have been pushed into service in taking the ammunition into the fighting section.

The few brief skirmishes already reported were with snipers detached from the main body of General Sandino's forces.

Natives brought an explanation of these sniping groups, Colonel Gulick explained.

He said they informed him General Sandino had divided the main body of his army into small companies and had decided on guerilla warfare from now on. This was owing to the overpowering strength of the combined marine and Nicaraguan national guard army in the field.

Major General Lejeune, United States marine commandant, who has been here inspecting the posts, will leave for the United States Friday.

Guatemala, Jan. 25.—Police dispersed 3,000 people who tried to parade through the city to show their sympathy with the Nicaraguan revolutionist general, Augustino Sandino, whom American marines are fighting. The attempted parade came after a mass meeting in Concordia Park.

B. V. Moore, Deputy Governor of Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis Speaks

AT ROTARY CLUB

Has Unlimited Faith in Its Future; No Fears of Years to Come

The speaker of the day at the Rotary club Tuesday was B. V. Moore, deputy governor of the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis who had been secured by George D. LaBar, president of the First National bank of Brainerd to speak on phases of federal reserve banking.

Mr. LaBar was also a host for he had invited a group of bankers from Brainerd and Crow Wing county to hear Mr. Moore. These included B. L. Lagerquist, H. R. White, H. P. Dunn, of the First National bank of Brainerd; R. J. Tinkelpaugh, M. E. Ryan of the Citizens State bank of Brainerd; F. W. Schwanke of the First National bank of Deerwood; R. E. Bennett, and R. A. Butts, of Crosby banks; J. C. Nelson, Pequot banker; S. R. Kramer, Fort Ripley bank.

In introducing the speaker Mr. LaBar referred to the fine address Mr. Moore had given two years ago to the club. Since that time Mr. Moore had been promoted to the position of deputy governor of the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis.

Mr. Moore said in part: "It is just beginning to percolate through the minds of all classes of people that we cannot pass through an orgy of war as destructive as the last one and by any magic wand or legislation restore normal economic business conditions. As early as 1920 following the ravages of that war, we were trying to find the road back to business normalcy. We are still on that pilgrimage.

"We are beginning to see that we are not an individual in our operations; that the problems of Brainerd, Fargo, Minneapolis, Chicago, and even the United States as a whole, are not the sole problems to come; in fact they are but the little, dovetailing, problems which, if we can solve the major ones, will naturally solve themselves.

"We meet the problems of today as acute as they were two years ago. I think the greatest asset of optimism in the world today is the gradual realization by the thinking men of all countries that this is a poor time to quarrel over little things.

"We as a part of the grain production, which is our major operation in this Ninth Federal Reserve District, have by the impetus of war built us an industrial or agricultural plant which is producing a tremendous surplus of raw grains. At least 150 million bushels of our varied grains raised in this district annually must be sold in world markets at a value, and for a credit, that we believe in. So the international banker as he labors on through a seeming haze of suspicion, hate, and jealousy, trying to maintain standard international credit relations, is but performing in a more experienced way the problems of Brainerd, Fargo, and the Ninth Federal Reserve District.

"When the purchasing power and the productivity of the millions of Europeans are brought back to normal conditions of 15 years ago; when we have established the confidence in the currency and credits of these nations; when we have lifted the wet blanket of debts that must yet be paid for 50 years then I believe there will be little complaint about the price of wheat, corn, oats, or barley.

"I have not lived in the northwest quite 30 years, but I am a confirmed optimist in its future. It is inconveivable to think what the conditions of this world would be if it was not believed by the world that the United States is a sort of rock of ages financially speaking; that this little dollar of the United States is the only instrument and the only anchor holding the confidence of the world; when we realize it is probably the operation and the mechanism of the federal reserve system, its scientific expansion and contraction of credit as needed, that is sustaining this confidence and parity, then I simply say to you in all frankness, that to tamper and destroy it is but the act of ignorance today.

"I have seen the Northwest pay off most of its current debts. I have read continuously and persistently from every source possible, and take courage at the increasing stability of international finance and politics and the spirit of tolerance and good will and patience. We have had a fair crop; probably not the price we deserve, but those of us who have beeting sitting through the long period, have seen this mountain of debt roll away in hundreds and hundreds of instances. We have seen men crawl out from under and begin to point their star north. It is the confidence I have in the courage of these men; in the common sense of the average individual, that I say to you today, I am an optimist on the Northwest. I have unlimited faith in its future, and if I could but instill a little patience into its progress, I have no great fears whatsoever for the years to come."

A. J. Sullivan was made a member of Rotary and was introduced to the club by Walter F. Wieland. W. C. Cobb spoke about high school basketball, B. Perry Newton about his pet and hobby show and R. R. Gould about the Chamber of Commerce.

RAPID EBB OF ARMOUR FORTUNE HAS BEEN STOPPED

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(U.P.)—The rapid ebb of the once great Armour fortune has been stopped, it was reported in financial circles here today, by another turn of the "Armour luck" which was a powerful force in business in the nineties and the first two decades of the twentieth century.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, the reports said, owns a block of Universal Oil Products Co. stock which was considered almost worthless a few years ago, but which today is said to be valued at $30,000,000.

When J. Ogden Armour died last year, his once great fortune was understood to have dwindled to only a few millions—to less than $1,000,000 some reports said.

According to the story told in La Salle street brokerage offices today, bankers rejected the Universal Oil Products stock owned by Armour as worthless when his assets were reorganized after a run of misfortunes had reduced his wealth. Armour later sold the stock to his wife.

Armour had invested heavily in the company when it was organized, counting on its ownership of oil cracking patents to produce ultimate returns.

$100,000 THEATER FIRE AT KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 25.—(U.P.)—A fire which caused $100,000 worth of damage started in the Isis theatre here last night. Six hundred and fifty people were in the theatre at the time. Ten small boys and a girl were carried by firemen to safety from the smoke-filled office rooms above the theatre. No one was injured.

The boys and the girl who had to be carried out were studying violin in one of the upper stories of the building. Smoke had filled the hallway and they were unable to make their way down.

SENATE TEAPOT DOME COMMITTEE CONTINUES INVESTIGATION

WALSH SAYS $233,000 OF BONDS GIVEN BY SINCLAIR TO FALL

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Jan. 25.—New York bankers were called by the senate Teapot Dome committee today to trace about $1,000,000 in bonds which passed through their agencies in the name of H. M. Blackmer, missing oil trial witness.

Vague political rumors have spread concerning the disposition of the securities and Senator Walsh of Montana, who is conducting the investigation, believes he can learn the identity of every person who received or handled them.

Walsh has ascertained that $233,000 of the bonds were given by Harry F. Sinclair, the oil man, to former Secretary of Interior Fall a short time after Fall leased the Teapot Dome naval reserve to Sinclair secretly in 1922.

M. T. Everhart, son-in-law of Fall, told that story to the committee late yesterday, piecing together a hidden chapter that government prosecutors and investigators have been seeking to get for three years.

Everhart, who has broken with Fall, readily told under subpoena how he got bonds from Sinclair and took them to Fall. Here is the story as he told it:

In May, 1922, (a month after Fall leased Teapot Dome to Sinclair) Fall told Everhart they ought to reorganize their debt-ridden cattle lands in New Mexico and that he had a "party" who was willing to put up money and go in with them. The "party" was Sinclair.

Everhart went to Sinclair's private railway car here and got $198,000 in bonds. Later he went to New York and received $35,000 more.

For this money Sinclair was supposed to be given a third interest in the cattle lands with Everhart and Fall. But the stock certificate never was made out in Sinclair's name and Fall borrowed money upon it at the Pueblo bank. Where it is now, Everhart said he did not know.

The company has never paid any dividends. Walsh is attempting to show the bond transaction was "part of the purchase price of a secretary of the interior."

Everhart revealed that Sinclair had lent Fall, without security, $36,000 in cash, which Everhart carried from Sinclair to Fall.

Thus, according to Everhart, Sinclair advanced $304,000 in bonds and cash to Fall. It has been established that E. L. Doheny, California oil magnate, lent Fall $100,000, making $404,000 Fall received from the two oil men.

VETERAN MEETS DEATH CALMLY

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 25.—(U.P.)—Shortly before Ben Fowler, veteran of the Argonne forest campaign, died in the electric chair today for the murder of Dr. W. W. Foust, he turned to his aged father, patted him on the back, and said:

"Just go on out now, Pap, like you was goin' to mill or some'ers. Tell Maw I'm just agoin' on ahead and tell the others I'll be waitin' for 'em in heaven."

Fowler walked to his execution firmly. His last words were directed to aid methods of strapping the electrons to his body.

He was convicted for the slaying of Dr. Foust, whose laughter in a motion picture theater irritated him while in a drunken rage. Later he killed a deputy sheriff who sought to arrest him for the Foust murder. He was believed responsible for at least four other murders.

B. V. Moore, Deputy Governor of Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis Speaks

AT ROTARY CLUB

Has Unlimited Faith in Its Future; No Fears of Years to Come

The speaker of the day at the Rotary club Tuesday was B. V. Moore, deputy governor of the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis who had been secured by George D. LaBar, president of the First National bank of Brainerd to speak on phases of federal reserve banking.

Mr. LaBar was also a host for he had invited a group of bankers from Brainerd and Crow Wing county to hear Mr. Moore. These included B. L. Lagerquist, H. R. White, H. P. Dunn, of the First National bank of Brainerd; R. J. Tinkelpaugh, M. E. Ryan of the Citizens State bank of Brainerd; F. W. Schwanke of the First National bank of Deerwood; R. E. Bennett, and R. A. Butts, of Crosby banks; J. C. Nelson, Pequot banker; S. R. Kramer, Fort Ripley bank.

In introducing the speaker Mr. LaBar referred to the fine address Mr. Moore had given two years ago to the club. Since that time Mr. Moore had been promoted to the position of deputy governor of the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis.

Mr. Moore said in part: "It is just beginning to percolate through the minds of all classes of people that we cannot pass through an orgy of war as destructive as the last one and by any magic wand or legislation restore normal economic business conditions. As early as 1920 following the ravages of that war, we were trying to find the road back to business normalcy. We are still on that pilgrimage.

"We are beginning to see that we are not an individual in our operations; that the problems of Brainerd, Fargo, Minneapolis, Chicago, and even the United States as a whole, are not the sole problems to come; in fact they are but the little, dovetailing, problems which, if we can solve the major ones, will naturally solve themselves.

"We meet the problems of today as acute as they were two years ago. I think the greatest asset of optimism in the world today is the gradual realization by the thinking men of all countries that this is a poor time to quarrel over little things.

"We as a part of the grain production, which is our major operation in this Ninth Federal Reserve District, have by the impetus of war built us an industrial or agricultural plant which is producing a tremendous surplus of raw grains. At least 150 million bushels of our varied grains raised in this district annually must be sold in world markets at a value, and for a credit, that we believe in. So the international banker as he labors on through a seeming haze of suspicion, hate, and jealousy, trying to maintain standard international credit relations, is but performing in a more experienced way the problems of Brainerd, Fargo, and the Ninth Federal Reserve District.

"When the purchasing power and the productivity of the millions of Europeans are brought back to normal conditions of 15 years ago; when we have established the confidence in the currency and credits of these nations; when we have lifted the wet blanket of debts that must yet be paid for 50 years then I believe there will be little complaint about the price of wheat, corn, oats, or barley.

"I have not lived in the northwest quite 30 years, but I am a confirmed optimist in its future. It is inconveivable to think what the conditions of this world would be if it was not believed by the world that the United States is a sort of rock of ages financially speaking; that this little dollar of the United States is the only instrument and the only anchor holding the confidence of the world; when we realize it is probably the operation and the mechanism of the federal reserve system, its scientific expansion and contraction of credit as needed, that is sustaining this confidence and parity, then I simply say to you in all frankness, that to tamper and destroy it is but the act of ignorance today.

"I have seen the Northwest pay off most of its current debts. I have read continuously and persistently from every source possible, and take courage at the increasing stability of international finance and politics and the spirit of tolerance and good will and patience. We have had a fair crop; probably not the price we deserve, but those of us who have beeting sitting through the long period, have seen this mountain of debt roll away in hundreds and hundreds of instances. We have seen men crawl out from under and begin to point their star north. It is the confidence I have in the courage of these men; in the common sense of the average individual, that I say to you today, I am an optimist on the Northwest. I have unlimited faith in its future, and if I could but instill a little patience into its progress, I have no great fears whatsoever for the years to come."

A. J. Sullivan was made a member of Rotary and was introduced to the club by Walter F. Wieland. W. C. Cobb spoke about high school basketball, B. Perry Newton about his pet and hobby show and R. R. Gould about the Chamber of Commerce.

RAPID EBB OF ARMOUR FORTUNE HAS BEEN STOPPED

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(U.P.)—The rapid ebb of the once great Armour fortune has been stopped, it was reported in financial circles here today, by another turn of the "Armour luck" which was a powerful force in business in the nineties and the first two decades of the twentieth century.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, the reports said, owns a block of Universal Oil Products Co. stock which was considered almost worthless a few years ago, but which today is said to be valued at $30,000,000.

When J. Ogden Armour died last year, his once great fortune was understood to have dwindled to only a few millions—to less than $1,000,000 some reports said.

According to the story told in La Salle street brokerage offices today, bankers rejected the Universal Oil Products stock owned by Armour as worthless when his assets were reorganized after a run of misfortunes had reduced his wealth. Armour later sold the stock to his wife.

Armour had invested heavily in the company when it was organized, counting on its ownership of oil cracking patents to produce ultimate returns.

$100,000 THEATER FIRE AT KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 25.—(U.P.)—A fire which caused $100,000 worth of damage started in the Isis theatre here last night. Six hundred and fifty people were in the theatre at the time. Ten small boys and a girl were carried by firemen to safety from the smoke-filled office rooms above the theatre. No one was injured.

The boys and the girl who had to be carried out were studying violin in one of the upper stories of the building. Smoke had filled the hallway and they were unable to make their way down.

SENATE TEAPOT DOME COMMITTEE CONTINUES INVESTIGATION

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Jan. 25.—New York bankers were called by the senate Teapot Dome committee today to trace about $1,000,000 in bonds which passed through their agencies in the name of H. M. Blackmer, missing oil trial witness.

Vague political rumors have spread concerning the disposition of the securities and Senator Walsh of Montana, who is conducting the investigation, believes he can learn the identity of every person who received or handled them.

Walsh has ascertained that $233,000 of the bonds were given by Harry F. Sinclair, the oil man, to former Secretary of Interior Fall a short time after Fall leased the Teapot Dome naval reserve to Sinclair secretly in 1922.

M. T. Everhart, son-in-law of Fall, told that story to the committee late yesterday, piecing together a hidden chapter that government prosecutors and investigators have been seeking to get for three years.

Everhart, who has broken with Fall, readily told under subpoena how he got bonds from Sinclair and took them to Fall. Here is the story as he told it:

In May, 1922, (a month after Fall leased Teapot Dome to Sinclair) Fall told Everhart they ought to reorganize their debt-ridden cattle lands in New Mexico and that he had a "party" who was willing to put up money and go in with them. The "party" was Sinclair.

Everhart went to Sinclair's private railway car here and got $198,000 in bonds. Later he went to New York and received $35,000 more.

For this money Sinclair was supposed to be given a third interest in the cattle lands with Everhart and Fall. But the stock certificate never was made out in Sinclair's name and Fall borrowed money upon it at the Pueblo bank. Where it is now, Everhart said he did not know.

The company has never paid any dividends. Walsh is attempting to show the bond transaction was "part of the purchase price of a secretary of the interior."

Everhart revealed that Sinclair had lent Fall, without security, $36,000 in cash, which Everhart carried from Sinclair to Fall.

Thus, according to Everhart, Sinclair advanced $304,000 in bonds and cash to Fall. It has been established that E. L. Doheny, California oil magnate, lent Fall $100,000, making $404,000 Fall received from the two oil men.

Walker hit at the Minneapolis government in an address before a mass meeting of Edina citizens. He asserted that the Minneapolis system of government was inefficient and mismanaged.

HICKMAN IS DEJECTED AS HE PLANS DEFENSE

armed with tear bombs and riot sticks, were waiting.

The courtroom had only 108 chairs, and little standing room.

With every precaution taken by authorities, no outbreaks of violence were expected.

Court Room, Los Angeles, Jan. 25.—The trial of William Edward Hickman for the murder of Marion Parker was halted suddenly at the very outset today by an unexpected defense move.

Court was recessed until 2 P. M. to permit state and defense attorneys to confer on the question of a trial judge.

Walsh's objection was in the form of an affidavit contending that Judge Hardy was prejudiced in the case and could not give Hickman a fair trial.

It was also contended that because he served as arraignment judge, he was not qualified to hear the trial.

The white-haired jurist ruled to the contrary, but reserved final decision until late today as to whether he will vacate the bench.

The case of the youthful criminal was called before Judge Carlos Hardy in superior court at 9:30 A. M.

Hickman was in a state of utter despair as the trial opened. He was haggard after sleepless hours last night spent in pacing the floor of his cell in the county jail.

"I'll swing," he told his guard as he was being led from the jail to the court room.

"I know I'll swing. "I wish the whole thing were over now."

BOWEN TO DIRECT HOOVER CAMPAIGN IN MINNESOTA

DETERMINED EFFORT TO BE MADE TO GAIN DELEGATES IN STATE

PRECINCT CAUCUSES MARCH 14, COUNTY CONVENTIONS ON MARCH 17

St. Paul, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Determined effort to obtain in Minnesota as many Hoover delegates as possible to the national republican convention is the keynote of an announcement today by Ivan C. Bowen, designated director of the Minnesota campaign for Hoover for president.

In the statement, Bowen called attention to the fact that republicans of the state must take part in the primary caucuses if they wish to have any part in the choice of the republican candidate for president.

The precinct caucuses are set for March 14 to name delegates to the county conventions March 17. The district conventions March 23 will name two delegates to the national convention and the state convention March 24 will select seven delegates at large, giving Minnesota 27 delegates.

"The northwest is at the crossroads of its economic development," Bowen commented in the statement. "The proper solution of agricultural and transportation problems, upon which the future prosperity of the people depends, requires for a president not only a man who realizes our difficulties, but who has the ability to propose and place in effect a sound remedy for them.

"Mr. Hoover has shown a keen realization of the needs of the northwest and his experiences and ability to place him in a position where he has no competition in results obtained. His work in Belgium and at home during the war made his name a household word. Since then he had devoted his ability and energy to our economic and social problems with telling results," the statement continued.

In conclusion Bowen asked active co-operation and support of all republicans favoring Hoover's candidacy in an effort to obtain delegates to the national convention pledged to vote for the Californian for president.

A state-wide conference of supporters of the candidacy of former Governor Frank O. Lowden, Illinois, is expected to be called within the next two weeks, according to Charles W. Sterling, in charge of Lowden organization work in Ramsey county.

HICKMAN IS DEJECTED AS HE PLANS DEFENSE

armed with tear bombs and riot sticks, were waiting.

The courtroom had only 108 chairs, and little standing room.

With every precaution taken by authorities, no outbreaks of violence were expected.

Court Room, Los Angeles, Jan. 25. —The trial of William Edward Hickman for the murder of Marion Parker was halted suddenly at the very outset today by an unexpected defense move.

Court was recessed until 2 P. M. to permit state and defense attorneys to confer on the question of a trial judge.

Walsh's objection was in the form of an affidavit contending that Judge Hardy was prejudiced in the case and could not give Hickman a fair trial.

It was also contended that because he served as arraignment judge, he was not qualified to hear the trial.

The white-haired jurist ruled to the contrary, but reserved final decision until late today as to whether he will vacate the bench.

The case of the youthful criminal was called before Judge Carlos Hardy in superior court at 9:30 A. M.

Hickman was in a state of utter despair as the trial opened. He was haggard after sleepless hours last night spent in pacing the floor of his cell in the county jail.

"I'll swing," he told his guard as he was being led from the jail to the court room.

"I know I'll swing. "I wish the whole thing were over now."

BOWEN TO DIRECT HOOVER CAMPAIGN IN MINNESOTA

DETERMINED EFFORT TO BE MADE TO GAIN DELEGATES IN STATE

PRECINCT CAUCUSES MARCH 14, COUNTY CONVENTIONS ON MARCH 17

St. Paul, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Determined effort to obtain in Minnesota as many Hoover delegates as possible to the national republican convention is the keynote of an announcement today by Ivan C. Bowen, designated director of the Minnesota campaign for Hoover for president.

In the statement, Bowen called attention to the fact that republicans of the state must take part in the primary caucuses if they wish to have any part in the choice of the republican candidate for president.

The precinct caucuses are set for March 14 to name delegates to the county conventions March 17. The district conventions March 23 will name two delegates to the national convention and the state convention March 24 will select seven delegates at large, giving Minnesota 27 delegates.

"The northwest is at the crossroads of its economic development," Bowen commented in the statement. "The proper solution of agricultural and transportation problems, upon which the future prosperity of the people depends, requires for a president not only a man who realizes our difficulties, but who has the ability to propose and place in effect a sound remedy for them.

"Mr. Hoover has shown a keen realization of the needs of the northwest and his experiences and ability to place him in a position where he has no competition in results obtained. His work in Belgium and at home during the war made his name a household word. Since then he had devoted his ability and energy to our economic and social problems with telling results," the statement continued.

In conclusion Bowen asked active co-operation and support of all republicans favoring Hoover's candidacy in an effort to obtain delegates to the national convention pledged to vote for the Californian for president.

A state-wide conference of supporters of the candidacy of former Governor Frank O. Lowden, Illinois, is expected to be called within the next two weeks, according to Charles W. Sterling, in charge of Lowden organization work in Ramsey county.

WHY THE SEA IS IMPORTANT TO AMERICA

PRACTICALLY all the British, and even a great many Americans, believe that Britain is absolutely dependent upon the seas for its existence, whereas the United States could remain self-sustaining for years if the sea lanes were completely closed to us.

Mr. William Howard Gardiner, in a recent issue of Harper's shows that this statement of the case is not exact. Both Britain and the United States are dependent upon the sea, Britain in somewhat greater degree than the United States. Britain imports $2,500,000,000 worth of foodstuffs each year. The United States imports $1,160,000,000 worth of foodstuffs each year. Thus the United States imports a volume of foodstuffs each year which is almost equal to the British total importation. And while the United States exports some foodstuffs, its imports exceed its exports. Therefore we are not independent of the seas as regards foodstuffs.

It is true that British industry is dependent upon the importation of such crude materials of cotton, wool, and iron ores. But the situation of American industry is not much better. The great American automobile and canning industries are dependent on rubber and tin from Malaya. In the making of American steel some forty commodities which come from fifty-seven different countries are required. The American steel industry would be virtually paralyzed if the sea lanes were closed to the United States.

Last year the external trade of the United States carried on the high seas was very much in excess of $8,000,000,000. And during the same year the external trade of Britain carried on the high seas was a little less than $7,000,000,000. American transoceanic trade flows to all parts of the world precisely as Britain's does.

Mr. Gardiner insists that the United States and Britain should be looked upon as two industrialized islands, differing mainly in extent and position. The argument that the sea plays a unique and special role in relation to Britain, and Britain alone, is not sound.

The point is worth emphasizing for it should be more widely comprehended than it is. It is exceedingly relevant to the broad question of policy involved in the increase of the American cruiser strength. The United States has too much at stake to afford itself the luxury of indifference to naval matters. Parity with Britain is a logical goal of American efforts.—Minneapolis Tribune.

THOSE GOOD OLD DAYS

EVERY now and then we hear some one sigh and say something about those "good old days." Those selfsame days, if reproduced now, wouldn't suit anybody.

Go to your home and start eliminating all the improvements you have and which you hitherto accepted as a matter of course in this wonderful age. Start right in and take out the furnace, for no one had a furnace in the good old days. Take out the bath tub, the plumbing fixtures, the electric light, the telephone, radio, phonograph, electric washer, the vacuum cleaner, the hardwood floors, the gas range, the mangle, the coffee percolator, the waterworks, and eliminate the basement, for many of the good old days homes had no basement, just a sort of well for a cellar. Take from the basement your grocery canned goods and meats, etc.

Then go out to the garage and take away the car, the rod and reel, the lawn mower, the garden hose.

Then go to your home. Ma will want a pail of water and you go to the pump, thaw it out and if you have no water for a starter, you will borrow some from the neighbor. In the meantime some one has chopped kindling and made a fire. If it's supper time, mother will light the kerosene lamp. There will be no evening paper, the nearest thing to news being the weekly. There will be no picture show to attend, no basketball, no jazz music dance. When it snows, it snows hard and blockades last for weeks or until the sun thaws a road or spring comes.

The roads in spring were almost hopeless and in summer were often muddy and at other times dusty. However, to hear some of the other old timers talk, the only thing that cannot be improved upon these modern days is the old swimming hole and the fishing and hunting.

ONE TAX WE CAN DODGE

"WE are more heavily taxed by our idleness, pride and folly than we are taxed by government."

We found this gem among Benjamin Franklin's sayings when we were glancing through his writings on his birthday recently. What he wrote a century and a half ago is just as true today.

If we may be permitted to paraphrase "Poor Richard," we could well say today:

"We are more heavily taxed by poor roads, which consume our gasoline, wear our tires and ruin our cars than we are taxed for good roads."

THE possibility of congress passing a new tax law does not relieve the taxpayer of the responsibility to file immediately a report on his income for 1927, A. R. Knox, assistant collector of internal revenue at Minneapolis, has warned. No extensions will be granted on the strength of possible new tax legislation, Mr. Knox said.

THE other day George A. Barton, sports editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, attached an explanatory preface to one of his stories bearing his signature, saying it was the first of a series of articles written by the aforesaid Barton on prize fights held in Minneapolis 35 years ago. All we can say is that no one is better informed than George A. Barton as to what Barton is to write about.

THE formation of a circuit of county fairs in 30 of the towns in northwestern Minnesota is proposed by S. E. Olson of Ada, who is a member of the board of directors of the State Agricultural society.

SOVIET RUSSIA is to have its own Olympics, to be held from August 12 to 22 at Moscow, in which 1,500 Russians are to compete as well as some 600 foreign athletes.

THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN

TO SAFEGUARD PANAMA CANAL

STEPS ARE TAKEN TO GUARD AGAINST AERIAL OBSERVATION

Havana, Jan. 25.—(UP)—United State delegates presented to the Havana Pan-American conference yesterday proposals designed to safeguard the Panama Canal from aerial observation.

To the communications committee, a proposal was made that existing agreements regarding aerial rights in the Pan-American area be changed so that any two countries for military reasons might prohibit the flight of airplanes over a given spot.

It was taken for granted that the proposal had to deal solely, so far as the United States was concerned, with the canal, vital to United States naval and commercial shipping.

The United States suggested that an article in the Pan-American agreement on commercial aviation be changed to read:

"The right of any of the contracting states to enter any convention or special arrangements with another state concerning international aerial navigation is recognized, as long as such convention or special agreement does not impair rights or obligations any states party to the convention have acquired or imposed therein;

"Provided, however, that prohibited areas within the respective territories and regulations pertaining thereto may be agreed upon by two or more states for military reasons or interests of public safety."

In simple language, it was understood it meant that the United States wanted to be able, with Panama's co-operation, to prohibit foreign airplanes from flying over strategically important canal sections.

Spends Six Strenuous Weeks at Studio Making "Her Wild Oat"

Colleen Moore became nearly a total stranger in her own home during the making of her newest picture, "Her Wild Oat," which comes to the Lyceum theatre Thursday.

In order that this comedy of a little lunch-wagon proprietress and her advent into society might be completed in time to reach the theatres of the world on the date promised by First National Pictures, Miss Moore was almost day and night at the studio for six weeks.

YOUNG VANDERBILT SURRENDERS HERITAGE TO PAY CREDITORS

Reno, Nev., Jan. 25.—(UP)—Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., has surrendered his entire heritage to meet the demands of creditors, he announced here late yesterday.

Bitterly denouncing members of his family, he said his attorneys now are arranging to make a final settlement of the tangled affairs of his recent newspaper enterprises.

"I only ask that my father, Gen. Vanderbilt, refrain from interfering in any way with my plans," he said.

Vanderbilt listed his liabilities at nearly a million and a quarter dollars.

His father previously had refused to sanction his giving away the heritage, he said, on the ground that the family did not have to back up the son's losses.

Vanderbilt said he could not follow his family's suggestion that he go into voluntary bankruptcy, as he felt it his duty to protect those who had backed him.

"All I ask now is an even break to get back on my feet again," he said. "In a few years I will be in a position to repay everything."

FIGURE 8 IS THE LEADING NUMERAL IN YEAR 1928

Plainfield, N. J., Jan. 25.—(UP)—The figure 8, which heretofore has attained prominence only through ice-skating, is the leading numeral of the present year, according to Ed Bodin, a student of "the harmonical vibrations of numbers."

For one thing, Bodin pointed out in a summary of his views released for publication late yesterday, 1928 is divisible by eight. Secondly eight is the year's last, or destiny, number. And thirdly, to clinch it 192 when divided by 8 gives 24 and 2 times 4 is 8.

Since eight rules the year, and Bodin is confident that it does, "H," the eighth letter, also is ascendant. To prove that, he showed how well the H's have held the front page in the first three weeks of the year, citing Havana, Houston, Heflin, Hearst, Hickman, Hotelling and Henry (Ford).

Hurricanes and heat-waves may be expected as well as the election of Herbert Hoover to the presidency, Bodin predicted.

BUTTERFAT INCOME DEPENDS ON FARMERS

Dairy Specialist Tells of Ways to Increase Value of Cows

URGES PROPER FEEDING

Chamber Extends Invitation to Second Dinner February 23

So popular and worthwhile was the dinner and meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday that Chamber of Commerce officials extended an invitation to the farmers to be the guests of the Chamber at another dinner on February 23, at which time the second of the series of three meetings will be held in connection with the Dairy School.

Early reports on the attendance at the dinner yesterday appeared underestimated. A checkover of the attendance revealed that over 250 farmers and farm ladies were served dinners. Encouraging was the large representation of farm ladies.

Ray Donovan, dairy extension specialist of the University of Minnesota passed out several valuable hints to the farmers towards the improvement of their herds and increasing the yearly output of butterfat.

He showed that cows giving 100 pounds of butterfat per year yield the farmer about six cents per cow per hour for the year and estimated that farmers worked approximately 170 hours per cow during the year. He then showed that where cows received the proper scientific feeding and care it was possibly to increase the butterfat production to 450 pounds a year which would net the farmers $1.39 an hour per cow. This represented an increase where the proper feeding and care was administered of about 25 times the previous figure.

The average butterfat production for Crow Wing county as revealed by statistics is 160 pounds per cow per anum which was considerably lower than the average butterfat production obtained by the 101 cow testing associations in Minnesota. The average production per cow in the cow testing associations of the state is 280 pounds.

Using the above figure, Mr. Donovan stressed the important need of more cow testing associations. He stated that it was principally up to the farmer to increase the butterfat production, as it was in his power to do so by following scientific method of feeding, care, and culling of non producing cows.

He set forth the following ways to benefit the farmer in increasing butterfat production:

By better feeding of the cows and placing them on a balanced ration sufficient to feed the body and the necessary ingredients for the production of sufficient quantities of butterfat.

By selection of cows capable of production.

By keeping records of the production of cows through a cow testing association and culling out cows that are boarders.

Mr. Donovan and W. A. Billings, veterinarian of the extension department of the University of Minnesota, will be the principal speakers at the next meeting. Mr. Donovan at that time will lecture on the balancing of rations and the buying of proper feeds in view of production and costs.

The last of the series will be held March 22.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother who passed away one year ago today, January 25, 1927.

When the evening shades are falling
And we're sitting all alone.
To our hearts there comes a longing
If she only would come home.
No one knows the silent hearts aches
Only those who love can tell
The grief that's borne in silence
For the one we loved so well.

COUNTY SUPPORTS CHILDREN

Returned to County From International Falls When Aid is Asked

Support for three children, their mother feeble minded and under care in a state institution has finally been placed in the hands of the county following their transportation of this county from Koochiching county, it was learned here today. The children are now in the care of their grandmother.

The International Falls paper had the following news item on the case recently:

"At a meeting of the Child Welfare Board, held yesterday, John Lorbecki, who came here from Crow Wing county with Rose Conradson, a feeble-minded woman and the wife of another man, and her three children, appeared before the board and said that inasmuch as the mother had been sent back to the home for the feeble-minded that he was unable to take care of the three children and asked the help of the board in making arrangements for their care, now and hereafter. The members of the board, after considering the matter, ordered that the children be transported to their rightful place of residence, in Crow Wing county. It is probable that the officials of that county will place the children in a state institution."

BEGGAR'S OPERA WELL RENDERED

Many Brainerdites Attend Old English Ballad Opera Last Evening

AT ST. CLOUD THEATRE

Restoration of 18th Century Numbers Overshadows Uninteresting Plot

A number of Brainerd people journeyed to St. Cloud last evening to see that unique stage offering "The Beggar's Opera" presented under the auspices of the Teacher's College at the Sherman theatre.

The opera was somewhat disappointing in its lack of a more interesting plot but criticism was overshadowed by the very charming work of the artists in the presentation of many beautiful and characteristic numbers and tunes taken from contemporary eighteenth-century editions.

The presentation of John Gay's famous English Ballad Opera showed that every possible effort had been made to recapture the spirit of the original work, much of which was "improved away" in the representations of the early nineteenth century. Unfortunately however in an age which lacks the leisure of the eighteenth century the opera could not be given in its entirety.

The entire organization and production consisting mainly of the original cast who appeared at the Lyric theatre, Hammersmith, London, when this opera was revived by Nigel Playfair on May 12, 1920, have been brought to the United States by J. C. Duff, direct from England for this tour.

Among those who attended from Brainerd were: Mr. and Mrs. William Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Burnett, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Chadbourne, Mrs. Louis Knudsen, Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Thabes, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cobb, L. P. Koop, Miss Ruth Louise Beise, Miss Evelyn Ryan, Dr. Herbert A. Carlson, Clarence Dahlen.

DAGGETT BROOK

Enoch Swanson and Oscar Meyer were in Brainerd Monday.

A number of friends surprised Mrs. Erick Nelson at her home Wednesday afternoon. She received many beautiful gifts and a delicious lunch was served. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Nelson, Mrs. Robert Nelson, Mrs. J. T. Cronquist and son Emil, Mrs. J. E. Swanson, Mrs. Chas. Olson, Mrs. Ben Grieson, Mrs. Ole Anderson, Mrs. Rouse and Herbert Rouse, Mrs. Magnus Olson, Ben Olson, Mrs. J. B. James, Mrs. Ira Ringering and children, Mrs. L. R. Hilderbrand, Miss Bess James, Mrs. Ed. Cofer, Mrs. Carl Gorden and daughter and Miss Ellen Nelson of Brainerd.

Gottleib Kuchel who has been working on his farm for a few days returned Monday to his home in St. Cloud.

Gene Scribner called on Enock Swanson Sunday.

SENATOR CURTIS VOICES PLATFORM

Washington, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, an announced presidential candidate, favors strict enforcement of the Volstead law, he told Senator Borah today in a letter replying to Borah's question on that subject.

"While I have no desire to dictate what shall be in the next national republican platform," Curtis said, "I personally, favor a plank referring to the 18th amendment and the laws enacted to carry it into effect, and I favor a plank pledging the nominee to a fair, vigorous and faithful enforcement of them.

"In my opinion, it is the greatest moral issue of all ages and public sentiment demands that both political parties declare themselves unequivocally upon it.

"Should I be nominated and elected president, I favor meeting the issue squarely and believe in the strict and energetic enforcement of the laws to carry out the constitutional amendment."

FIRE CAPTAIN MEETS DEATH AT YOUNGSTOWN

Youngstown, O., Jan. 25.—(UP)—Fire Captain Martin Walsh, 48, was killed, and two other firemen were injured when a wall collapsed while they were fighting a business district blaze here early today.

Ellsworth, Wis., Jan. 25.—(UP)—Investigation of a blast which occurred when Clarence Whittaker, 23, teacher, lighted a fire in the school stove a week ago and which partially wrecked the building, was dropped today following Whittaker's resignation.

Whittaker taught at the school for 2 years. He was injured about the head and chest when the stove exploded as he started a fire in it before pupils arrived at the building one morning.

It was believed that explosives had been planted in the heating plant.

The reason for Whittaker's resignation was not revealed when members of the school board announced his resignation.

Dr. Nicholas M. Butler as Presidential Candidate of G.O.P.

The president of Columbia university spoke at a dinner of the New York Young Republican club last night and outlined his policies. Butler was introduced as one whose name might be brought up as a nominee at the republican convention, but he did not declare himself in his speech.

"The eighteenth amendment may, and in my judgment should, be repealed in order that the American people may undertake a constructive and effective solution of the problems of the liquor traffic," Butler said.

In his attack upon the foreign policy in party issues, Butler said the subject was not the topic for partisan discussion but rather a matter for general public opinion.

BUTTERFAT INCOME DEPENDS ON FARMERS

Dairy Specialist Tells of Ways to Increase Value of Cows

URGES PROPER FEEDING

Chamber Extends Invitation to Second Dinner February 23

So popular and worthwhile was the dinner and meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday that Chamber of Commerce officials extended an invitation to the farmers to be the guests of the Chamber at another dinner on February 23, at which time the second of the series of three meetings will be held in connection with the Dairy School.

Early reports on the attendance at the dinner yesterday appeared underestimated. A checkover of the attendance revealed that over 250 farmers and farm ladies were served dinners. Encouraging was the large representation of farm ladies.

Ray Donovan, dairy extension specialist of the University of Minnesota passed out several valuable hints to the farmers towards the improvement of their herds and increasing the yearly output of butterfat.

He showed that cows giving 100 pounds of butterfat per year yield the farmer about six cents per cow per hour for the year and estimated that farmers worked approximately 170 hours per cow during the year. He then showed that where cows received the proper scientific feeding and care it was possibly to increase the butterfat production to 450 pounds a year which would net the farmers $1.39 an hour per cow. This represented an increase where the proper feeding and care was administered of about 25 times the previous figure.

The average butterfat production for Crow Wing county as revealed by statistics is 160 pounds per cow per anum which was considerably lower than the average butterfat production obtained by the 101 cow testing associations in Minnesota. The average production per cow in the cow testing associations of the state is 280 pounds.

Using the above figure, Mr. Donovan stressed the important need of more cow testing associations. He stated that it was principally up to the farmer to increase the butterfat production, as it was in his power to do so by following scientific method of feeding, care, and culling of non producing cows.

He set forth the following ways to benefit the farmer in increasing butterfat production:

By better feeding of the cows and placing them on a balanced ration sufficient to feed the body and the necessary ingredients for the production of sufficient quantities of butterfat.

By selection of cows capable of production.

By keeping records of the production of cows through a cow testing association and culling out cows that are boarders.

Mr. Donovan and W. A. Billings, veterinarian of the extension department of the University of Minnesota, will be the principal speakers at the next meeting. Mr. Donovan at that time will lecture on the balancing of rations and the buying of proper feeds in view of production and costs.

The last of the series will be held March 22.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother who passed away one year ago today, January 25, 1927.
When the evening shades are falling
And we're sitting all alone.
To our hearts there comes a longing
If she only would come home.
No one knows the silent hearts aches
Only those who love can tell
The grief that's borne in silence
For the one we loved so well.

COUNTY SUPPORTS CHILDREN

Returned to County From International Falls When Aid is Asked

Support for three children, their mother feeble minded and under care in a state institution has finally been placed in the hands of the county following their transportation of this county from Koochiching county, it was learned here today. The children are now in the care of their grandmother.

The International Falls paper had the following news item on the case recently:

"At a meeting of the Child Welfare Board, held yesterday, John Lorbecki, who came here from Crow Wing county with Rose Conradson, a feeble-minded woman and the wife of another man, and her three children, appeared before the board and said that inasmuch as the mother had been sent back to the home for the feeble-minded that he was unable to take care of the three children and asked the help of the board in making arrangements for their care, now and hereafter. The members of the board, after considering the matter, ordered that the children be transported to their rightful place of residence, in Crow Wing county. It is probable that the officials of that county will place the children in a state institution."

BEGGAR'S OPERA WELL RENDERED

Many Brainerdites Attend Old English Ballad Opera Last Evening

AT ST. CLOUD THEATRE

A number of Brainerd people journeyed to St. Cloud last evening to see that unique stage offering "The Beggar's Opera" presented under the auspices of the Teacher's College at the Sherman theatre.

The opera was somewhat disappointing in its lack of a more interesting plot but criticism was overshadowed by the very charming work of the artists in the presentation of many beautiful and characteristic numbers and tunes taken from contemporary eighteenth-century editions.

The presentation of John Gay's famous English Ballad Opera showed that every possible effort had been made to recapture the spirit of the original work, much of which was "improved away" in the representations of the early nineteenth century. Unfortunately however in an age which lacks the leisure of the eighteenth century the opera could not be given in its entirety.

The entire organization and production consisting mainly of the original cast who appeared at the Lyric theatre, Hammersmith, London, when this opera was revived by Nigel Playfair on May 12, 1920, have been brought to the United States by J. C. Duff, direct from England for this tour.

Among those who attended from Brainerd were: Mr. and Mrs. William Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Burnett, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Chadbourne, Mrs. Louis Knudsen, Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Thabes, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cobb, L. P. Koop, Miss Ruth Louise Beise, Miss Evelyn Ryan, Dr. Herbert A. Carlson, Clarence Dahlen.

DAGGETT BROOK

Enoch Swanson and Oscar Meyer were in Brainerd Monday.

A number of friends surprised Mrs. Erick Nelson at her home Wednesday afternoon. She received many beautiful gifts and a delicious lunch was served. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Olson, Mrs. Ben Grieson, Mrs. Ole Anderson, Mrs. Rouse and Herbert Rouse, Mrs. Magnus Olson, Ben Olson, Mrs. J. B. James, Mrs. Ira Ringering and children, Mrs. L. R. BRAINERD SCORES VICTORY OVER STAPLES

COMES FROM BEHIND IN SECOND QUARTER TO WIN BY 20 TO 10

VISITORS FAIL TO SCORE FIELD BASKETS AFTER INITIAL PERIOD

LOCAL HIGH CAGERS SET PACE; STAPLES WEAKENS IN OFFENSIVE DRIVE

The ability to maintain an even pace throughout the entire game that has characterized the playing of the Brainerd high school basketball team was evident again last evening in the game with Staples, which Brainerd took by the score of 20 to 10 at the local high school.

Using all their plays and driving power in the first quarter, Staples chalked up nine points in that period to Brainerd's five. The visitors, however, for the remainder of the game were held down to one free throw while the locals continued to carry the ball through for field goals.

Brainerd scored five points in the second quarter, seven in the third and three in the last.

Wise again proved high point man for Brainerd with eight points. LaCourse sunk three field goals. Ed Johnson, Cartwright and Greeno were Staples' scorers.

PHIL GLASSMAN AND STABLE OF FIGHTERS ARE ALL SUSPENDED

New York, Jan. 25.—(U.P.)—Phil Glassman, Philadelphia fight manager, and his entire stable of fighters have been suspended by the New York State athletic commission until Benny Bass, one of Glassman's proteges, fights Tony Canzoneri, Brooklyn, Feb. 10, for the featherweight title.

The action followed postponement of the Bass-Canzoneri fight, originally scheduled for Friday night, because of Bass' illness.

French Belanger, Canadian flyweight, the National Boxing association's champion, also was suspended indefinitely for failure to respond to a summons to appear before the commission. Belanger was summoned in connection with his disqualification on a foul in a recent bout in Buffalo with Frisco Grande.

BUD TAYLOR'S FREAK KNOCKOUT OVER PHIL ZWICK

Zwick hit the floor in the second round after exchanging head punches with Taylor. He was plainly unhurt, but elected to take a count of nine for the rest.

Referee Walter Houlihan gave the fight to Taylor because Zwick was slow in getting up and did not reach his feet before the tenth count started.

The crowd booed the decision.

CHICAGO BALLYHOOS FOR TUNNEY BATTLE

BENTON, PITCHER, AND CUMMINGS, CATCHER, SIGNED BY GIANTS

New York, Jan. 25.—(U.P.)—Larry Benton, former Boston Braves pitcher who was acquired by the New York Giants last season, and Jack Cummings, catcher and member of last year's squad, have been signed by the New York Giants for the 1928 season.

Benton turned in seventeen wins and eight losses out of forty games for Boston and New York last season. Most of his wins were for the Giants.

Injuries prevented Cummings from getting into his stride last year as catcher but he hit .358 in forty-three games.

SHARKEY TO MEET RISKO MARCH 12

15 ROUND BOUT IN RICKARD'S ELIMINATION TOURNAMENT

Boston, Jan. 25. — (U.P.)—Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, will meet Johnny Risko, Cleveland, O., in New York on March 12 in Tex Rickard's elimination tournament.

Announcement that the Lithuanian had signed for a 15-round bout with Risko came only a few hours after Sharkey had declared he would fight no one except Tunney or Dempsey.

In revealing that he had accepted the offer of Jess McMahon, Rickard's match-maker, John Buckley, Sharkey's manager, explained:

"Delaney refused to meet Risko in 15 rounds. I signed to show them Jack isn't afraid to meet Risko or anyone else in 15 rounds."

Buckley said he had been assured by Rickard that if Sharkey eliminated Risko the Boston heavyweight "would be given first crack at the championship."

Giants Sign up Henry and Reese

New York — Signed contracts of Frank (Dutch) Henry pitcher, and Andy Reese, combination infielder-outfielder, were received by the New York Giants.

SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY
UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

Tex Rickard and Gene Tunney send word from Florida that they expect the pending heavyweight elimination tournament to provide a suitable opponent for the champion next September.

The only trouble with the proposed tournament is that each contender already has been eliminated at least once, some oftener.

The contestants are Jack Sharkey, Tom Heeney, Johnny Risko, Jack Delaney and Paolino Uzcudun.

Consider the records of these young men, without going back more than a year or so.

Jack Sharkey, on his last two appearances, was knocked out by Jack Dempsey and held to a draw by Tom Heeney;

Tom Heeney was beaten by Paolino;

Paolino was defeated by Johnny Risko;

Risko lost to Heeney;

Jack Delaney was beaten by Risko and was losing to Paolino when fouled.

The recent speedy knockout victories achieved by Delaney and Paolino have served in a considerable measure to restore public confidence in these gentlemen.

Delaney, for instance, is a tremendous drawing card once more.

Fight fans in general have short memories.

Already they have forgotten the poor showing of Delaney against this same Paolino last summer. The Basque, forcing the fighting, was leading by a wide margin in the seventh round. He seemed to have Delaney bewildered by his awkward, plunging style.

Once Jack finds out that he cannot drop his man with a right uppercut, he becomes a poor excuse for a fighter, and usually permits himself to be outpointed.

In this instance, kindly providence, in the guise of a referee, intervened. Paolino had been warned a couple of times for hitting low, although the blows had not disturbed Delaney.

Suddenly, in the seventh round, the referee stepped between the fighters and waved Paolino to his corner. As Delaney was being battered along the ropes at the time, the Basque thought he had won. It was some time before he realized that he had been disqualified for fouling.

Even then, Paolino became aware of the fact before Delaney did. Jack was sitting on his stool in a semistupor, when Pete Reilly, his manager, warned him:

"Remember, Jack, you've been fouled."

It is to be hoped that the elimination tournament, if we must have it all over again, will be free from such affairs. Too many bouts in 1927 were marred by fouls, or claim of foul.

There were the Delaney-Paolino bout, the Dempsey-Sharkey affair, the second meeting between McGraw and Terris, and a number of others.

RED WING HOST TO NATIONAL SKI STARS FEB. 3-4-5

SKI ARTISTS FROM ALL SECTIONS OF AMERICA AND CANADA ARE ENTERED

REPRESENTATIVES FOR NEXT OLYMPICS TO BE SELECTED AT THIS MEET

Red Wing, Minn., Jan. 25.—More than three-score years ago Evan Fladwed, one of the pioneer residents of this city of 10,000 people, thrilled residents by sensational performances, now commonly known as skiis. Thus was born the greatest of outdoor winter sports in America. Fladwed had brought with him from Norway a pair of skiis and as he gracefully glided down hillsides and made thrilling jumps through space he created an interest in this then new sport. Gradually it was taken up and the Hemmesvedt brothers, who gained nationwide fame for their leaps of around a hundred feet, natives of Red Wing, traveled throughout the country giving demonstrations on the wooden runners.

It was more than half a century ago that the Aurora Ski club of Red Wing, the oldest organization of its kind in America, was formed. It staged the first ski tournament in the states and on February 3, 4 and 5 the 'cradle of the American ski sport" is to be host to the national ski tournament for the first time in its history. Ski artists from all sections of America and Canada will be entered. Some 300 have already been signed up to participate and compete for the trophies and prizes, the value of which will run into thousands of dollars.

Red Wing boasts the finest natural ski slide to be found in the United States. A thirty-foot scaffold, erected at the top of the incline, gives added momentum and the prediction is made that all records for jumps will be shattered at the forthcoming tournament. Lars Haugen, present national champion in an exhibition run, leaped through space for a distance of 164 feet and predicted that jumps of 200 feet were possible. He and his brother, Anders Haugen, who has held the title of national champion half a dozen times, will be the main contenders for the tournament honors. They will have close competition from Halvor Bjorngaard of Red Wing, a recent arrival from Norway, the home of skiing, who was runner-up at the national tournament in Colorado in 1927.

Included in the vast array of stars are the skiers who participated in the last Olympics. Representatives of America in the next Olympics in 1932, which will be held in this country, will be selected at the Red Wing meet. This city is laying plans for the honor of staging these events insofar as outdoor winter sports are concerned. Henry Nelson of Ravelstock, Canada, who holds the world's unofficial record of 240 feet, Alfred Bakken and Al Jansen of the Norge Ski club, Chicago; Rolf Munson, Bratelboro, Vt., Erling Strom, Estes Park, Colorado; and Rolf Mangseth, nine years old, the skiing sensation, are the stars who have already enrolled. Carl Ek, who is past the half century mark in years, and is one of the veterans of the ski sport, will be among the contestants. He was one of the sensations of the national meet at Denver last year when he outdistanced the champion, but lost points because of two falls.

The tournament will be conducted under the international rules. For years skiers competed as professionals with cash awards to the winners. Now highly prized trophies and merchandise awards of intrinsic value offered.

In connection with the tournament a winter sports carnival, which will make Red Wing the winter sports capital of the nation, will be staged. There will be long distance dog derbies, cross country runs on skiis for both men and women, fancy ice skating and ice races, both for skates and ice boats on the Mississippi river, and other outdoor contests. A huge toboggan slide has been erected and everything possible has been done to entertain the thousands of visitors expected. A monster ice palace, made of ice blocks, taken from the Mississippi river, is to be erected in the heart of the business district and the entire city is to be gaily decorated.

Three railroads are to run special excursions to Red Wing from points as distant as Chicago. A Pullman city is to be established in the railroad yards to accommodate the visitors and every home in Red Wing has been thrown open to guests. A contest is now in progress to select a queen, to be known as Queen Aurora who will reign throughout the tournament and carnival with Red Wing, an Indian, who is a great grandson of Chief Red Wing, after whom the city is named.

Red Wing will be the winter sports capital of the nation for three days—February 3, 4 and 5—and the entire country is invited to participate in the event.

New York Commission Increases Guarantee Posted for Fights

New York, Jan. 25.—(U.P.)—The New York State athletic commission had adopted a rule increasing the usual guarantee of fighters for championship or other important matches to $5,000, to be posted with the board.

The regulation supersedes the established forfeit of $2,500 for appearance and condition in feature matches.

The adoption of the rule, which is to be employed with discretion, followed a protest entered by Charles J. Harvey, manager of Tom Heeney, against the action of Jack Delaney.

Delaney had indicated he would participate in a series of tune-up matches prior to his battle with Heeney in Madison Square Garden March 1, but Harvey based his opposition on the possibility of Delaney's sustaining an injury.

Heeney and Delaney will be the first to be affected by the guarantee rule.

BIG BUSINESS INTERESTS, ILLINOIS BOXING COMMISSION BUSY

LEADING POLITICIANS WORKING TO INDUCE TUNNEY TO FAVOR CHICAGO

By BERT M. DENBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Jan. 25. — Chicago has officially started its ballyhoo to obtain Gene Tunney's next heavyweight championship bout.

Big business interests, the Illinois Boxing Commission, and leading politicians are working to induce Tunney to bring his next opponent here for the scuffle.

Anton J. Cermak, president of the Cook county board, is already in Florida. He interviewed Tunney yesterday and reported the champion preferred Chicago to any city in the country.

Paul Prehn, chairman of the boxing commission, declared the business interests of the entire state would be solidly behind a movement to bring the fight here.

Cermak wired friends here that Tunney told him he had a contract with Rickard, under the terms of which Rickard must name Tunney's next opponent by February 1.

"Rickard wanted to hold elimination bouts in Madison Square Garden and put the big fight on in the fall in New York," Cermak said, "but Tunney objected to this. Tunney agreed to let Rickard name his opponent by February 1, and Rickard must post a $100,000 forfeit by that time. Tunney then may reject or accept Rickard's offer. Tunney prefers Chicago as a site."

It had previously been reported that Rickard, under the contract, would not be forced to name Tunney's opponent until forty days before the bout.

It seems unlikely that Rickard will name an opponent by February 1, in view of the number of heavyweights available to attract customers in an elimination tournament.

Cermak's telegram also revealed for the first time that Tunney objected to Rickard's picking his opponent by elimination.

Chicago fight fans would like to see Tunney meet Jack Sharkey.

NEAR FREE-FOR-ALL FOLLOWS WRESTLING MATCH AT DALLAS

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 25. — (U.P.)—A near free-for-all followed a wrestling match here in which the light heavyweight championship changed hands.

The referee awarded the match to Joe Shimkus, Chicago, on a foul and Clarence Eklund, the loser, swung a right to the official's jaw. Police intervened.

Each man previously had won one fall.

Shimkus, the new champion, is a wrist lock specialist, and has lost only three matches in the last three years. Eklund had held the championship almost continually for nine years.

TRIS SPEAKER IS RELEASED

Washington, Jan. 25. — (UP) — Tris Speaker has been given his unconditional release from the Washington American League baseball club, effective Feb. 1, President Clark wired here from Tampa today.

Though he had a fairly good season with the Washington club last season, Speaker had been asked by Griffith to accept a radical reduction in salary. When he bucked, his release followed.

Nothing definite has come from various rumors that Speaker has been negotiating for a minor league managership. Such negotiations may have been held up by the fact that Speaker considered himself bound to the Washington club until February 1. He then will be free to negotiate such a job or to go after another playing job in the big leagues, according to Griffith's action today.

BRAINERD SCORES VICTORY OVER STAPLES

COMES FROM BEHIND IN SECOND QUARTER TO WIN BY 20 TO 10

VISITORS FAIL TO SCORE FIELD BASKETS AFTER INITIAL PERIOD

LOCAL HIGH CAGERS SET PACE; STAPLES WEAKENS IN OFFENSIVE DRIVE

The ability to maintain an even pace throughout the entire game that has characterized the playing of the Brainerd high school basketball team was evident again last evening in the game with Staples, which Brainerd took by the score of 20 to 10 at the local high school.

Using all their plays and driving power in the first quarter, Staples chalked up nine points in that period to Brainerd's five. The visitors, however, for the remainder of the game were held down to one free throw while the locals continued to carry the ball through for field goals.

Brainerd scored five points in the second quarter, seven in the third and three in the last.

Wise again proved high point man for Brainerd with eight points. LaCourse sunk three field goals. Ed Johnson, Cartwright and Greeno were Staples' scorers.

PHIL GLASSMAN AND STABLE OF FIGHTERS ARE ALL SUSPENDED

New York, Jan. 25.—(U.P.)—Phil Glassman, Philadelphia fight manager, and his entire stable of fighters have been suspended by the New York State athletic commission until Benny Bass, one of Glassman's proteges, fights Tony Canzoneri, Brooklyn, Feb. 10, for the featherweight title.

The action followed postponement of the Bass-Canzoneri fight, originally scheduled for Friday night, because of Bass' illness.

French Belanger, Canadian flyweight, the National Boxing association's champion, also was suspended indefinitely for failure to respond to a summons to appear before the commission. Belanger was summoned in connection with his disqualification on a foul in a recent bout in Buffalo with Frisco Grande.

BUD TAYLOR'S FREAK KNOCKOUT OVER PHIL ZWICK

Zwick hit the floor in the second round after exchanging head punches with Taylor. He was plainly unhurt, but elected to take a count of nine for the rest.

Referee Walter Houlihan gave the fight to Taylor because Zwick was slow in getting up and did not reach his feet before the tenth count started.

The crowd booed the decision.

BENTON, PITCHER, AND CUMMINGS, CATCHER, SIGNED BY GIANTS

New York, Jan. 25.—(U.P.)—Larry Benton, former Boston Braves pitcher who was acquired by the New York Giants last season, and Jack Cummings, catcher and member of last year's squad, have been signed by the New York Giants for the 1928 season.

Benton turned in seventeen wins and eight losses out of forty games for Boston and New York last season. Most of his wins were for the Giants.

Injuries prevented Cummings from getting into his stride last year as catcher but he hit .358 in forty-three games.

SHARKEY TO MEET RISKO MARCH 12

15 ROUND BOUT IN RICKARD'S ELIMINATION TOURNAMENT

Boston, Jan. 25. — (U.P.)—Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, will meet Johnny Risko, Cleveland, O., in New York on March 12 in Tex Rickard's elimination tournament.

Announcement that the Lithuanian had signed for a 15-round bout with Risko came only a few hours after Sharkey had declared he would fight no one except Tunney or Dempsey.

In revealing that he had accepted the offer of Jess McMahon, Rickard's match-maker, John Buckley, Sharkey's manager, explained:

"Delaney refused to meet Risko in 15 rounds. I signed to show them Jack isn't afraid to meet Risko or anyone else in 15 rounds."

Buckley said he had been assured by Rickard that if Sharkey eliminated Risko the Boston heavyweight "would be given first crack at the championship."

RED WING HOST TO NATIONAL SKI STARS FEB. 3-4-5

SKI ARTISTS FROM ALL SECTIONS OF AMERICA AND CANADA ARE ENTERED

REPRESENTATIVES FOR NEXT OLYMPICS TO BE SELECTED AT THIS MEET

Red Wing, Minn., Jan. 25.—More than three-score years ago Evan Fladwed, one of the pioneer residents of this city of 10,000 people, thrilled residents by sensational performances, now commonly known as skiis. Thus was born the greatest of outdoor winter sports in America. Fladwed had brought with him from Norway a pair of skiis and as he gracefully glided down hillsides and made thrilling jumps through space he created an interest in this then new sport. SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY
UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

Tex Rickard and Gene Tunney send word from Florida that they expect the pending heavyweight elimination tournament to provide a suitable opponent for the champion next September.

The only trouble with the proposed tournament is that each contender already has been eliminated at least once, some oftener.

The contestants are Jack Sharkey, Tom Heeney, Johnny Risko, Jack Delaney and Paolino Uzcudun.

Consider the records of these young men, without going back more than a year or so.

Jack Sharkey, on his last two appearances, was knocked out by Jack Dempsey and held to a draw by Tom Heeney;

Tom Heeney was beaten by Paolino;

Paolino was defeated by Johnny Risko;

Risko lost to Heeney;

Jack Delaney was beaten by Risko and was losing to Paolino when fouled.

The recent speedy knockout victories achieved by Delaney and Paolino have served in a considerable measure to restore public confidence in these gentlemen.

Fight fans in general have short memories.

Already they have forgotten the poor showing of Delaney against this same Paolino last summer. The Basque, forcing the fighting, was leading by a wide margin in the seventh round. He seemed to have Delaney bewildered by his awkward, plunging style.

Once Jack finds out that he cannot drop his man with a right uppercut, he becomes a poor excuse for a fighter, and usually permits himself to be outpointed.

In this instance, kindly providence, in the guise of a referee, intervened. Paolino had been warned a couple of times for hitting low, although the blows had not disturbed Delaney.

Suddenly, in the seventh round, the referee stepped between the fighters and waved Paolino to his corner. As Delaney was being battered along the ropes at the time, the Basque thought he had won. It was some time before he realized that he had been disqualified for fouling.

Even then, Paolino became aware of the fact before Delaney did. Jack was sitting on his stool in a semistupor, when Pete Reilly, his manager, warned him:

"Remember, Jack, you've been fouled."

It is to be hoped that the elimination tournament, if we must have it all over again, will be free from such affairs. Too many bouts in 1927 were marred by fouls, or claim of foul.

There were the Delaney-Paolino bout, the Dempsey-Sharkey affair, the second meeting between McGraw and Terris, and a number of others.
